- 99.04. Datenbasis: AIGYPTOS - Datenbank zur Literaturrecherche im Fachgebiet Ägyptologie
 Prof. Dr. Günter Burkard, Dr. Martina Ullmann
- Namen der Verantwortlichen:* Prof. Dr. Günter Burkard, Dr. Martina Ullmann
- Beschreibung:* Datenbank zu neuerer ägyptologischer Fachliteratur. Neben den notwendigen bibliographischen Angaben erfährt jedes Dokument - Monographie, Artikel in Zeitschrift, Sammelband, Katalog, etc - eine detaillierte inhaltliche Verschlagwortung. Eine sehr gezielte und benutzerorientierte Daten-Strukturierung ist bei der Recherche möglich. Ab Erscheinungsjahr 1990 ist der ganz überwiegende Teil der ägyptologischen Literatur eingegeben; aus den 80er und 70er Jahren ein kleinerer Teil vor allem der Artikel in Zeitschriften und Sammelbänden. Seit einigen Jahren arbeitet das ägyptologische Institut der Universität Heidelberg am Aufbau der Datenbank mit.
- Anwendbar auf Computerbasis:* PC
- Gesamtzahl der Eintragungen:* ca. 13.200
- Thesaurus:* Der zur Verschlagwortung benutzte Thesaurus wurde im Verlaufe des Projektes von uns entwickelt und basiert auf dem Stichwortverzeichnis des Lexikons der Ägyptologie. Sprache: Deutsch.
- Art der Abfrage:* Im Moment nur per Computer in der Bibliothek des Instituts für Ägyptologie, München; etwa ab Jahresanfang 2000 soll die Datenbank im Internet zugänglich sein.
- Postadresse:* Institut für Ägyptologie
 Meiserstr. 10
 D-80333 München (Deutschland)
- Telefon:* (+ 49 89) 289 27 544
- Fax:* (+ 49 89) 289 27 545

99.12. Base de données: Behbeit el-Hagara
Nom de la responsable: Christine Favard-Meeks
Description: Ce fichier constitue un inventaire des blocs in situ, des blocs de musée et de ceux connus par les publications, uniquement. Son but est l'enregistrement de la mise en page, de l'iconographie et des textes relevés sur chacun des blocs éclatés et présentant des éléments ayant constitué l'élévation de la paroi d'un temple (soubassement, dédicace, tableaux d'offrande sur plusieurs registres, etc.). Il vise à permettre une interrogation, par palier, sur des éléments disparates mais totalement complémentaires allant de la nature du support, de sa couleur, à l'emplacement d'un fragment de texte. Ce projet n'est pas un outil visant à imposer des résultats mais à proposer des solutions. La fiche dans son ensemble permet donc l'enregistrement des acquis et l'interrogation permanente. Elle présente, comme il se doit, une information de base quasiment immuable – la description du bloc dans son état actuel – et des entrées susceptibles d'être modifiées au fur et à mesure que progresse la reconstitution. L'état chaotique de l'information à traiter nécessite et justifie cette remise en question permanente. Cette remise à jour du fichier s'est accompagnée d'un travail de codification sur la description, aussi brève que possible, des vestiges iconographiques d'une paroi éclatée.

99.16. Base de données: Bovidés
Nom de la responsable: Christine Favard-Meeks
Description: Cette base a pour but d'enregistrer et d'analyser l'information concernant les bovidés, émanant des références textuelles et des éventuelles illustrations. Elle est constituée de deux fichiers: - un fichier global « Documentation » où chaque fiche réunit, pour un même bovidé, toutes les sources textuelles; - un fichier « Analyse » où chaque source fait l'objet d'une fiche. Chaque référence est analysée selon son contenu textuel, selon la nature de son support matériel et l'iconographie qui peut s'y rattacher. Son but est de dégager pour tous les bovins connus des textes égyptiens, les caractéristiques essentielles de leur rôle dans la religion égyptienne.

99.19. Database: Classified Bibliographical Database of Ancient Egyptian Medicine and Medical Practice
Name of the person in charge: Prof. Peter A. Piccione, Ph.D.
Description: cf. 98.18. Comprehensive computerized bibliographical database of all scholarly publications, written since A. D. 1676, on the subject of ancient Egyptian medicine, medical and magical practices, and human biology. The database contains specific entries on: specific diseases, conditions, and syndromes, human physiology, parts of the body, Egyptian conceptions of anatomy and aetiology, ancient therapies and procedures, psychological issues (pertaining to personality, dreaming, etc.), pharmaco-poeia and pharmacological agents, clinically oriented palaeo-botany (i.e., medicinal plants), diet, nutrition, and eating customs, Egyptian medical texts and papyri, dentistry, dental health and treatments, veterinary medicine, activities and status of physicians, mummification, medically oriented human anthropology, modern palaeopathological studies, and ethnology. All entries are classified according to the usual bibliographical criteria, as well as very discrete subject headings related to the topics above.

Required computer: Microsoft Windows®. The database will include its own search engine, INMAGIC RUN-TIME® which is the read-only, run-time version of INMAGIC DB/TEXTBASE®. If made available over the Internet, the database will include INMAGIC/WEBPUBLISH®.

Total number of records: 2780 records currently classified under 579 discrete subject headings

Consulting forms: personal, internet

Remarks: Preparation of the database is still continuing, estimating of over 7,000 citations when completed. Most likely, the fully searchable database will be available on CD-ROM (or perhaps through subscription on the Internet). A paper-edition in standard bibliographical format will also be published with detailed cross-references and concordances to permit manual searching. Thereafter, supplements and updates would appear periodically.

99.31. System: EGEL (cf. 99.37)

Name of the persons in charge: Erhart Graefe and Edward Loring

Description: Research project of the Gnosarch Foundation, Basel and the Institute for Egyptology and Coptology University of Münster (Prof. Dr. Erhart Graefe and Anke Ilona Blöbaum). Development of a system for the analysis of Egyptian texts and grammar on the basis of a root lexicon and a complex multidimensional attribute matrix.

Required equipment: WIN-95, 98 or NT-4

Thesaurus: Historical context uses thesauri of the Databank of Eastern European Egyptology. Texts stored to date (12.IX.99) include the royal inscriptions of the 25th Dyn.

Complete analysis is possible from the historical background of a text and its carrier down to the characteristics of individual hieroglyphs.

99.32. Name of programs:

EGV.EXE / WBIB.EXE, includes read-only Hieroglyphic (800+ signs), Transliteration, Greek, and Coptic screen fonts.

Name of the person in charge:

Dr. Ogden Goelet, Jr.

Description:

cf. 96.13, 97.18 and 98.27. I am developing a Windows-based Egyptian vocabulary database project centered around a program named EGV.EXE, which runs on systems employing Windows 95 or later. Thus far, this is a read-only program capable of using data stored in a standard database. It displays (with virtually instantaneous screen response) words and simple phrases encoded according to the Manuel de Codage. Besides Latin characters, the program is already capable of showing mixed Hieroglyphic text (currently only the Gardiner Sign-list, but could be expanded to include the Extended Sign-list as well), Transliteration, Coptic, and Greek. Any references associated with a word (Belegstellen) may also be displayed. More extensive remarks can be stored in standard database note files (DBT-format). WBIB.EXE handles the associated bibliography.

Total number of records:

At this point the project is strictly in a testing mode. A very small database of under 100 words is being employed. Once the input, search, and editing components have been developed, this database will be expanded considerably as a test of the Egyptian Vocabulary Project.

Thesaurus:

No

Remarks:

The programming for this program has been greatly simplified with the advent of Microsoft Visual C++ Version 5.0 and Codebase 6.0. In addition this combined environment is very stable, 'crashes' and 'memory leaks' having been omitted. This has been accomplished at no loss in speed, furthermore. This is a strictly non-commercial project.

Price:

This is a strictly non-commercial project.

Postal address:

This program, when fully developed, will be made available to those wishing to participate in the Egyptian Vocabulary Project.

Kantor, Chicago, Illinois, March, 1945.

Name of the persons in charge: John Larson, Charles E. Jones (The Oriental Institute, University of Chicago)

Description: An expanded book length manuscript was among the papers that Helene J. Kantor left to the Oriental Institute at the University of Chicago. She received the Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago in 1945 on the basis of a summary of the contents of this manuscript and in the expectation that the thesis would be published as a book. Instead, a long article, 'The Aegean and the Orient in the Second Millennium B. C.' was published in American Journal of Archaeology 51:1-103 in 1947. It was later issued (and recently reprinted) as The Archaeological Institute of America Monograph No. 1.
